

UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Work continues on freeway bridges

Crews are making steady progress on each of the freeway bridges now under construction.

Retrofit of the bridge at Little Mountain Drive in San Bernardino is done, except the guard rail and approach slabs. Bridges at State Street in San Bernardino and Cactus Avenue in Rialto also are nearing completion, with an opening of State Street expected in mid-January, and an opening of Cactus Avenue likely this spring.

The bridge at Pepper Avenue should be finished this winter, followed by the completion of bridges at 27th Street and California Street in San Bernardino, and the bridge at Highland Avenue in Rialto, all set for this summer.

The bridge at Highland Avenue in San Bernardino should open by late summer, and the bridge separation of Route 210 and Interstate 215 also is continuing and is expected to wrap up next fall.

Work will resume on the bridge across Lytle Creek Wash when the rainy season ends in April. This bridge may be finished by the end of 2006.

Crews are forming the deck of the freeway bridge across Highland Avenue in Rialto.

Lanes reduced on Easton St. starting Jan. 5

Vehicle traffic will be restricted on the north side of Easton Street in Rialto, starting January 5.

Crews will be relocating a water line on the north side of Easton east of Riverside Avenue, so traffic will be re-routed to the south side of the street.

Access to the Easton Square Apartments near Riverside Avenue will be maintained, but no parking will be allowed on Easton Street during this work. Restrictions to St. Thomas More Church will be kept to a minimum.

This work will be in effect for about two weeks.

Night closures set for December 19-21

Several night-time closures on Interstate 215 near Route 30 are set for Dec. 19-21 in San Bernardino. Closures include:
